Jr. women seek funds on project

The Pleasanton Junior Women's Club and Amador Valley High auditorium reconstruction committee will ask the Amador district board of trustees to dip into their bond fund for $15,000 in order to adequately finance the auditorium project.

A sum of $14,845.29 has already been provided by the club through its annual Mardi Gras. However, the club notes that it far short of the amount needed "to deal with the total needs as presented in the committee report."

The request will come before Amador trustees at their regular monthly board meeting Tuesday night at Dublin High School. Trustees convene in the high school library at 7:30 p.m.

The Junior Women's Club, in a report to its state body, outlined the rationale for the selection of the auditorium as principle recipient of this year's event.

Many cutbacks in the high school's budget have placed the auditorium low on the priority list, though a large number in the community have already contributed countless hours towards improving the building.

However, much of the previously raised funds were used to repair damage caused by rain and windstorms.

Last September, an auditorium committee was formed at Amador Valley High and is composed of Ralph Laird, principal, an assistant principal, four fine arts teachers, three students, Doug Rose, director for business services for the district, Janet Dillard, president of the Junior Women's Club, and the chairman of the Mardi Gras Committee.

As a result of their work, a priority list of projects was drawn up with approximate costs.

First in priority is $14,100 for stage rigging, including a T-bar wall, reworked grid and three counterweight sets. Second is lighting, at approximately $12,050, including a dimmer (3,000 watt plug), control console, spotlight raceways and second border light.

Also to be taken up by board members Tuesday are reports on progress of construction at Foothill High and a West Las Positas overcrossing.

On the latter, the board is concerned about traffic flow from east of Highway 680 to west of the highway.

Breaking the bottleneck

At weeks week's end, a settlement of the Sierra Club lawsuit which threatens to delay, and possible kill, the widening of Interstate 580 through the Dublin Canyon, was reported near. Assemblyman Floyd Mori said Friday, "It is my understanding the state highway people and the Sierra Club have come to an agreement," but he added, "the federal people have some problems with this." Mori said the agreement is basically "six plus two lanes" although exactly what that means is not clear. The state highway department has maintained to reduce the number of lanes to six would require at least a two - year delay, which could result in the loss of federal funds for the $110 million project.

Sanitarium tour slated to promote youth ranch

The Congress of Valley Agencies (COVA) will convene its second congress next month in a Saturday morning tour of the Del Valle Sanitarium to garner support for help with a general plan for the site tentatively leased to the Buenas Vidas Youth Ranch by Alameda County Supervisors.

Youth Ranch representatives Sally Bystroff and John Pitts approached the COVA steering committee Thursday night "not for a sales job," Bystroff said, but "to see where COVA can help."

Buenas Vidas "needs help with a general plan so the supervisors know in six months they're not stuck with an albatross," Bystroff said.

Bystroff also raised the possibility of COVA holding the southwest corner of the 89-acre abandoned Arroyo Del Valle Sanitarium "as part of an agreement" until the Youth Ranch is ready to take it over.

The proposal approved by the board of supervisors Apr. 22 called for Buena Via to as caretakers and supervisors of all the area, Bystroff told the committee She asked committee members to consider a planning commission composed of COVA's participating agencies to avoid cancellation of the lease in six months.

If the Youth Ranch and the board of supervisors can't agree on a program for restoration of the site the lease may be cancelled.

All participating COVA agencies will be invited to the tour, in addition to local unions, representathves of the federal youth training facility, East Bay Regional Parks District, Valley Mental Health Services, Chambers of Commerce from Dublin, Livermore and Pleasanton, the Sierra Club, low income groups and local bicycpe associations.

Congressman Pete Stark, State Senator John Homdahl, Assemblyman Floyd Mori and the Alameda County Board of Supervisors also will be invited.

Bystroff asked that one of COVA's agencies provide an on-site architect to field questions on code updating and costs.

Some buildings are not restorable, Bystroff conceeded, and must be demolished.

Buenas Vidas' original proposal before the supervisors requested $300,000 in county funding for restoration in addition to water and sewage line maintenance.

The supervisors rejected that offer and awarded the lease on the grounds that it wouldn't cost the county any money.

The Youth Ranch may be forced to raise as much as $750,000.

Valley BART director seeks route comment

Robert Allen, the District 5 representative to the Bay Area Rapid Transit Board of Directors, has called for written comments on the proposed BART route in the valley by May 30.

Allen urges "every taxpayer to protect his or her investment by taking the time to evaluate the proposed BART line" and to communicate those thoughts to him.

Allen will present the comments he receives to the Project Board of Control.

Allen also would like citizens to comment on the merits of a bus system as opposed to a full BART extension and adds that "modification of the plan is possible if the people so desire."

Written comments can be mailed to the Livermore-Pleasanton BART Extension Board at 800 Madison St., Oakland 94607.

CINDY DAVIS
...Rodeo queen

'75 Livermore Rodeo Queen is accomplished

LIVERMORE — Cindy Davis, queen of the 1975 Livermore Rodeo, and one of the city's most accomplished young horsewomen, will face five exacting days of competition May 14 through 19 while attempting to win the title of Miss Rodeo California.

The contest, where Cindy will compete with 11 other girls from all over California for the title, will be held in Turlock starting Wednesday, and be climaxed with the coronation festivities during the annual Turlock Rodeo May 18.

For those five days Miss Davis will be almost constantly in competition and, if she wins, she will be eligible to compete for the Miss Rodeo America title later in the year.

To win, she must prove her ability at a variety of western and rodeo-related equestrian events. She must prove her ability to handle a western stock horse and compete in three rodeo events, pole bending, barrel racing, and goat tying.

Both pole benind — a sort of slalom race on the back of a fast running western horse — and barrel racing, demand a horse with great dexterity, and extreme handling skill and horsemanship on the part of the rider.

Mounts for the contestants will not be their own, but drawn from a pool provided by the stock contractor for the Turlock Rodeo.

In addition to the horsewomanship tests, the girls will be judged on their personalities, their appearance in formal western wear, informal western wear, and in a formal dress.

They will be questioned about their rodeo knowledge, and judged during their appearance at a variety of events including dinners, luncheons, western dances, fashion shows, and many other scheduled activities.

Sewer litigation

VCSD clarifies position

LIVERMORE - The Valley Community Services District (VCSD) has sent this city a letter telling its side of the sewage story.

In a two-page memo aimed at clarifying the situation and correcting misunderstandings perpetuated about the sewage treatment plant problem, the VCSD attorney supplies background information and states the community's view of the difficulty.

"A misunderstanding apparently continues to exist concerning the purport of the litigation which was brought by the City of Pleasanton against VCSD and joined in by a number of the land developers within both Pleasanton and the Valley Community Services District," the memo states.

The judgement which was entered did not order either VCSD or Pleasanton to enlarge their sewage treatment facilities to handle 8 million gallons per day (mgd). Rather, the order directed VCSD to apply for federal and state funds to expand its plant.

Both VCSD and Pleasanton were directed to enter into negotiations with the ultimate intent of phasing out Pleasanton's Sunol Plant by treating all sewage in the VCSD facility, the report notes.

"At no time was there any court order effective as to either Valley Community Services or the City of Pleasanton that there must be an expansion to 8 mgd.

"Instead, the requirement was for Valley Community Services District to make an application for grant funding in order to accomplish an enlargement to 8 mgd if feasible.

"Such an application was deemed, by those joining with Pleasanton in a recent mandate action against VCSD, to be the only economically feasible means of accomplishing the enlargement," the memo states.

December of 1972 was the date the stipulated judgement was entered into. At that time, VCSD sewage treatment plant capacity was 3.25 mgd, according to the VCSD letter.

Since that time, additional facilities have been provided which allow treatment of up to 4 mgd. Additional minor modifications to the plant could allow more capacity.

"However, limitations on salt discharges into the Alameda Creek and the Niles Cone, as a consequence of the use of the underground stream and basin for the transmission and storage of imported water, has precluded the current use of the facilities."

The memo also points out that VCSD has little control over growth because of its lack of planning and zoning powers. It does have an advantage over multi-power agencies, however, by its ability to provide consolidated design and function for sanitation purposes.

"...as Pleasanton and Alameda and Contra Costa Counites proceed to approve developments, the Valley Community Services District, with other benefit type agencies, is faced with the problem of coping with the legal requirement to provide services to properties within its boundaries," the report explains.

Copies of the memo also were sent to the City of Pleasanton; Environmental Protection Agency; State Water Resources Control Board; Regional Water Quality Control Board; URS Research Company; John Carollo Engineers; Local Agency Formation Commission of Alameda and Contra Costa Counties, and the Bay Area Sewage Services Agency.

Schools hope to save anti-noise funding

LIVERMORE — Livermore Unified School District officials are hoping to hang onto $100,000 in noise abatement money for which the district would have qualified if the $10 million building measure had not been passed March 4.

The noise abatement money was for Green School, where truck noise from the nearby Interstate 580 sometimes drowns out teachers trying to talk in the classrooms, and creates a racket on the playground.

The State Department of Transportation had included Livermore in its list of the first 22schools eligible for noise abatement allottments. But the money was applied for a year ago, before local voters decided Green, an old wooden school near the Altamont Pass, should become a warehouse. The kindergarteners, first and second graders who are bused there will, in two years, be attending a brand - new Christensen School closer to their homes. The present Christensen School, a collection of portable buildings housing grades 3 - 6, is going to be replaced by a permanent "core" surrounded by some of the portables from Green as well as other movable classroom buildings.

Rudy D'Ambra, Livermore's director of facilities management, said Friday he has been trying to make a case for the district's applying the $100,000 noise abatement award toward relocation costs of merging Green with Christensen Schools.

(State noise - reduction projects totaling $36 million will noiseproof some 225 elementary schools which were built prior to freeways which are responsible for raising the noise level in classrooms.)

The only hitch is that Green will be merged with Christensen regardless of the noise abatement money, according to the proposal for which local residents voted.

"We could reimburse them only if this money would make it possible for them to relocate," a state Department of Transportation assistant transportation engineer explained Friday.

He was not sure whether Livermore could not get the money on a technicality, claiming the $10 million in building money was going for other projects and the district was $100,000 short.

The $100,000 figure was arrived at after Department of Transportation inspectors determined what construction would be necessary at Green School to noiseproof it.

According to the department's records, in one classroom with the windows closed the noise level rose to almost 60 decibels — loud enough to be in competition with the teacher. Noise over 50 decibels is grounds for noise abatement funding Fifthy - five to 60 decibels is the sound generated by a loud conversation.

Seventy decibels, twice as loud as 60, is considered equivalent to the hum of a vacuum cleaner; 80, a washing machine; 90 (the legal maximum for a vehicle driven on the freeway), the roar of a motorcycle or diesel truck.

Noise on the Green playground measured 71 one - tenth of the time, according to the state department's records.

Their proposed solution was installing double panes of acoustical glass, doing construction work on the walls and roof. A huge wall can sometimes be erected as a buffer between the freeway and the affected school, but it was not possible in Green School's case, the engineer explained. — by Pat Kennedy

Council may decide on overpass hearing

PLEASANTON - The city council will decide whether a public hearing is necessary on the Stoneridge overpass Environmental Impact Report at its Monday night meeting.

Council held a meeting with residents who questioned the project on May 1 and satisfactorily answered many of the questions the citizens raised. However, if the residents still desire a public hearing, one will most likely be scheduled.

A report on the possibilities for future local transporation will also be discussed. That report, prepared by Assistant City Manager Jim Walker, reviews the less than successful history of taxi and bus transporation in the community but notes the Senior Citizen mini-Bus System is relatively successful at a minimal cost.

That service enjoys success, Walker found, because it "is specialized and provides service to a particular group that has a need for that service."

Walker concludes, "Based on the history of public transporation in Pleasanton, it would appear that a limited transporation system geared to meet particular needs would have a greater chance for success than a broad system that attempts to lure people from their automobiles."

Council is also scheduled to take up the Park and Recreation Commission's proposed new name for Century Park.

The commission has recommended the park be called "Bicentennial Park" in honor of the nation's 200th birthday.

Other items on the agenda include a request from Morrison Homes for an extension of time to purchase sewer permits; consideration of a draft letter regarding Pleasanton's sphere of influence; and a presentation by Mary Stormer regarding the widening of Pleasanton-Sunol Road in front of the Kaiser property.

The council meeting will begin at 8 p.m. Monday at the Pleasanton Court.

County planners eye rental firm sites

Alameda County Bureau

HAYWARD — A rezoning that will finally provide a permanent Pleasanton home for Arrow Rentals will come before the Alameda County Planning Commission Monday.

Clifton Butler is seeking rezoning from agricultural to light industrial for a one-acre parcel at 3932 Santa Rita Road to house the equipment rental firm.

Arrow Rentals was forced to move from its Valley Avenue headquarters last year because of construction of the Valley Plaza Shopping Center. A controversial decision by city staff allowed them to locate temporarily on Main Street.

The firm originally tried to gain approval to build a permanent structure on Stanley Boulevard but ran into stiff opposition from neighbors who claimed the firm would generate too much traffic on narrow Vervais Avenue.

Although the Santa Rita Road parcel is outside the city limits, the city has indicated it does not object to the use of the property and the county planning staff is recommending approval of the rezoning.

Rhodes and Jamieson is seeking rezoning to light industrial of a seven acre parcelwhich is part of its 356 acres of gravel pits to allow a move of corporate headquarters from Oakland to Pleasanton.

The planning staff is also recommending approval of that rezoning. The parcel, which contains existing buildings that will be used for the headquarters, is located on El Charro Road approximately 2,000 feet south of Interstate 580.

The planning commission meets at 1:30 p.m. Monday in the Alameda County Public Works Building, 399 Elmhurst St.

Walnut Grove parents target of new quiz

PLEASANTON — Parents in the Walnut Grove School attendance area will be asked to indicate their preference of three concepts of education.

A one-page outline of the three concepts will be sent to parents within the next couple of days with brief descriptions of 1) team teaching in open space (the "bread and butter" method currently in vogue at the school), 2) Open Education and 3) Fundamentalist.

Prineipal Anthony Huff is asking that all parents receiving the outline indicate their choice and return the form within a week.

This is a necessity, according to Huff, so that the school can determine how many youngsters might be in each alternative method of schooling.

At a meeting Thursday night to outline the Fundamentalist methodology, morethan 200 parents jammed the fifth grade pod to hear Huff and several members of the faculty explain the concept and how it could be offered along with the other two alternatives.

Faculty members working in this program are Judith Hilger, Claudia Armstrong, Carol Pendery, Blanche Blackburn, Renee Goodrich and Paul Fackler.

Huff felt that many of those attending Thursday were curious to learn about Fundamentalist concept while a few were concerned about possible transfer of their children to Alisal School. Huff said their was a minor amount of anti-Fundamentalist heckling, but added the same occurred during a presentation on Open Education.

Valley laboratory wins honor

Lawrence Livermore Laboratory's Laser Fusion Laboratory has been named by INDUSTRIAL RESEARCH magazine as the 1975 "Lab of the Year" in nationwide competition. Selection was based on criteria of architectural attractiveness and functional practicality. The magazine cited energy - saving features, custom - designed research areas, open, attractive work space and low cost ($58 per square foot) as reasons for the selection. The 89,000 square foot building, designed and built by Norman Engineering Co. of Los Angeles, cost $6.8 million. It was dedicated in September, 1974. Lawrence Livermore Laboratory is operated by the University of California for the Energy Research and Development Administration.

Biting dog search on in valley

LIVERMORE — Time is running out for eight-year-oldTerri Johnson, the Gonzaga Court girl who was bitten by a light tan medium - sized dog on Tuesday.

If the dog isn't located by this Wednesday, Terri will have to endure a series of painful and quite risky rabies shots to prevent the fatal disease.

Terri describes the dog that bit her as light tan with white markings on the face, short hair, a long tail, probably pointed ears, and wearing tags.

She was bitten about 2:30 p.m. Tuesday in the vicinity of DePaul and Drake Way. Her mother has already canvassed that neighborhood and believes the dog is from another part of town.

Health authorities need to observe the dog for a few days to confirm that it isn't rabid.

Anyone who knows of a dog answering the description is urged to contact Animal Control at 443-0111, or the Johnson family at 447-4304.

Valley program to continue

School lunch threat eases

LIVERMORE — Is the cheap school lunch on its way out?

President Ford has been trying to cut federal subsidies to school lunch programs, but luckily Congress isn't having any of it. If he had gotten his way, the President would have slashed $600 million from federal meal subsidies (mostly in the form of surplus commodities) and made it necessary for the usual "Type A" hot lunch (heavy on the bread and potatoes, but nutritionally balanced) to cost 80 cents instead of the 50 cents now charged in Pleasanton and 45 in Livermore.

That would eliminate all but the wealthiest and most determined families from being able to provide their children with hot school lunches. At present, the hot meal programs do a brisk business in both Valley communities (Dublin has no program), with some 1,600 served on an average day in the Pleasanton Elementary School District and 3,000 in Livermore Unified.

That kind of an operation employs more than 80 cafeteria workers and cooks in the two districts combined. For a while, when presient Ford's cutbacks were first announced, the California School Employes Association, representing non - certificated personnel, was up in arms because they predicted a third of all school food service employes would lose their jobs as lunch - buying dropped off.

Now things are looking brighter again, with the important commodities promised for the coming year.

According to Bob Renard, food services director for the Pleasanton district, some of the free foods the district gets are hamburger meat, lentils, orange juise, powdered milk, beans, rice, butter, cheese and flour.

In Livermore, the food services program was headed by 18-year veteran Mary Deutchmann.

"Each year we seem to come across," she said placidly, not getting overly upset at the Congressional flaps going on.

Livermore serves a 20 - cent breakfast every morning at Portola and Fifth Street Schools as well as offering hot lunches at 23 schools.

Although lunches cost 45 or 50 cents for most children, the needy can get reduced - cost or free lunches.

Application forms are available at all local schools. For reduced - price meals, a family must have a maximum income of $8,770 for a family of four, $11,360 for a family of six.

For free lunches, the guidelines limit family income to $6,260 for a family of four, $8,110 for six, with other incomes and family sizes proportionate.

Now being served

Attending the style parade and luncheon were 275 Newcomers and their guests dressed as fashionably as the Newcomer models. The women enjoyed pineapple fruit boat and dessert, followed by the program of Joseph Magnin fashions, Merle Norman make-up, coiffures by The Odessy and shoes by Burton.

Commentator for the show was Kathie Steele who led the audience around the world in imagination with fashions that evoked far-off lands.

Apperson guest ranch faces new delays in court action

Alameda County Bureau

OAKLAND — Bill Apperson, whose efforts to construct a guest ranch on Apperson Ridge have been delayed for five months because of an environmental lawsuit, was faced with another two-month delay in Alameda County Superior Court Friday.

Judge Lyle Cook continued the suit filed by the Sierra Club and a number of other environmental organizations against Apperson and the Alameda County Board of Supervisors until July 18.

The delay will allow the Sierra Club attorney Owen O'Donnell time to complete transcripts of tapes of the Apperson proceedings before the supervisors, distribute them to the judge and all attorneys, and allow all concerned an opportunity to review and submit written arguments based on those transcripts.

At a previous hearing, Judge Cook had ordered O'Donnell to submit the "entire record" at Friday's hearing. O'Donnell did submit the complete 600-page written file but said he was having difficulty finding a court reporter to transcribe the tapes of the supervisors' meetings that dealt with Apperson.

"One transcriber notified me on Monday the job was too difficult," O'Donnell told the court, but he added he has located another court reporter who is willing to sift through the six hours of tapes.

"I think, if we are given two weeks, we will be able to provide copies," O'Donnell said. He added, the difficulty has arisen because "this is not a chore that is relished by court reporters."

Error-plagued Mats still win, 4-3

Despite a defense that had more holes than Swiss cheese, the Granada Matadors rallied to gore Dublin, 4-3, at the Dublin pastures Friday.

The teams battled to a scoreless standoff until the fifth when Dublin's starting pitcher Robin Sherwood got aboard on the third of four Bob Stoddard errors.

Following an infield pop up, right fielder Craig Chiarpotti was nailed at the plate. To make matters worse for McCuaig, he strucj out to end the inning.

With the almost impossible challenge of making amends for his careless play, Stoddard blasted a double to left as both runners crossed home.

Stoddard must have had an early dinner date, as he attempted to reach third on the rip and was out by ten feet.

Dave Spencer skipped a grounder past Dave Anderson at third for a two base error and Stoddard touched the plate with Granada's third run.

But, with the finesse of a walrus, Stoddard launched the ball over a bewildered Duke at first.

After the inevitable miscue, Shawn Mays singled Schout to second and both runners advanced on a sacrifice bunt by Larry Castillo.

After a pop-up to the shortstop for the second out, the dim hopes rested upon the small shoulders of relief pitcher Jim Orman.

Orman entered the ballgame after two were gone in the top half of the sixth.

The tiny hurler raised his average to .500 (3 for 6) when he drove a Steve Stone fastball to center to tie the freak contest at three.

In the final frame, Mat Jay Strickland singled to open the inning and went to second when Ken Stayton's bunt was dropped by first sacker McCuaig on a throw from the pitcher.

Gael Skipper Mullican must have felt fundamentals weren't paying off as he went to managerial strategy.

The Dublin coach yanked Orman, replaced him with second baseman John Prieto and inserted Sherwood at second base.

Obviously angered, Prieto struck out Gosney before Stoddard, hesitant about having his name go down in infamy, stroked a fly to right to score the winning run.

With the feeling that a hit would not necessarily be needed to score runs in this ballgame, Dave Anderson struck out but sped to first when the ball eluded Pat Gosney and the catcher's throw to first was wide.

Jim McCuaig followed with a routine grounder to shortstop Jesperson. Whatever Stoddard had at third must have been contagious, for the shortstop fumbled yet another ground hugger to put the winning run on first.

Al Schout missed in his attempt to bunt and Anderson inexplicably headed for third. He was out by a yard.

But McCuaig was forced at second on a fielder's choice off the bat of Schout and Shawn Mays whiffed to end the wild affair.

"This was our worst defensive ballgame of the year," said Matador Coach Dennis Berger in an obvious understatement.

Everyone, including third baseman Stoddard agreed.

Wilkerson lays down 'Poke win

Robin Wilkerson scripted his own chilling seventh inning scenario Friday in Livermore High's improbable, 6-5 EBAL baseball win over Amador Valley.

It was the Cowboy catcher who suggested the two-strike, bases-loaded suicide bunt which tied the game at five, and set up Dan Wood's game-winning bloop single moments later.

The victory pulled Livermore within one-half game of Monte Vista in the frantic EBAL pennant race, which has boiled down to its final week.

The Cowboys had already worked struggling Amador pitcher Mark Larson for three walks and a hit batsman in the seventh inning to score one run and draw close at 6-5. Wilkerson swung feebly at two Larson pitches, and took two other serves for balls.

Then he dumped the ball exquisetly between third base and the pitchers mound. Amador's Steve Vaughn charged desperately from third, and stumbled attempting to gather up the ball. By the time he did, Wayne Perry had scored from third base, and Vaughn's throw sailed futilely past catcher Mark Bevilacqua.

"I told the coach that if Larson got two strikes on me I wanted to bunt," Wilkerson revealed after Wood's center field base hit fetched the winning score.

"I wasn't sure it would work," he smiled; "but it was worth a try."

Livermore coach Kevin Drake, showing the strain of the tense game, wasn't convinced it was the best move. "In my six years of coaching that's only the third time I've called a squeeze," he said. "Fundamentally it's not a good play. But you can't argue with results. And Robin is a good bunter."

The Cowboys failed miserably at Larson pitches for five innings, but cashed in on his wildness at the finish. Larson walked five men in the final two frames, and gave up five runs in that span.

He struck out nine however, and that weighed in Drake's decision to accept the bunt. "Larson looked good when he was getting the ball over," Drake said. I just wanted to get the run home, and do something to shake things up. We practice the squeeze play, but there are so many things that can go wrong. Today things just went our way."

The Cowboys were able to overcome atrocious fielding (five errors) that made four of the five runs off winning pitcher Keith Richardson, unearned. The only one that wasn't tainted was a first-pitch home run by Brett Boldrini leading off the fourth inning. Brett yanked Richardson's fast ball far over the head of Greg Edwards in right field. Bevilacqua drove in two runs against Richardson with a pair of singles. Steve Vaughn and Mike Garrigan also slapped run-scoring base hits.

Wilkerson produced Livermore's first run with a two-out triple in the third inning that scored Rich Palmer. Palmer walked in a run in the seventh inning.

Scott Graver was another hero with a two-out bases loaded single up the middle in the sixth inning. That fetched two runs and pulled Livermore within one at 4-3.

Both Larson and Richardson pitched six-hitters, Keith also striking out nine. Larson was in command of the game through five innings, having allowed just three scattered hits. Control abandoned him in the final two innings however. He finished with seven bases on balls.

Mats shatter 9 marks at NCS

Granada High school swimmers broke eight school records yesterday 1975 swim season finally expired with the North Coast Section meet in Santa Rosa.

On the varsity level, where the Mats finished ninth with 10 points, Chris Hoenig led the way with new standards in the 200 IM and the 500 freestyle. Hoenig came in third in the 500 with a 4:44.9 and sixth in the IM at 2:01.9.

The other four varsity marks were set by swimmers who reached the consolation finals.

Steve Cutting in the 200 freestyle (1:49.8), Dave Eckart in the 100 breast (1:01.4) and Dave Johansen in the 100 back (1:00.4) claimed individual marks. The 400 free relay team of Hoenig, John Rizzo, and Dave and Ron Johansen set a mark in its event with a fine 3:22.2 clocking.

In the forsh-soph, or "B", division, two Granada underclassmen bettered the previous Granada low.

Greg Heras swam the 500 free in 5:13 while Dave Longerbeam was timed in 1:07.9 for the 100 breast. Both advanced to the consolation finals.

While the Mats finished the highest of any Division I team in the varsity classification, Dublin performed a similar feat on the "B" level with 60 points.

Mark Steinhauff was the only Gael to reach the finals as he took third in the 100 free (51.2) and fourth in the 200 free (1:50.1). Victor Hinojosa took second in the 50 butterfly at 26.0 to round out the Dublin heroes.

The only other EBAL standouts were divers Dave Potts and Wendy Morrison. Potts, from Amador Valley, finished third in the varsity division with 374.1 points while San Ramon's Morrison was taking fifth in "B" with 307.1 markers.

How 'bout a pen

Livermore American Little League will conduct a fund raising ball point pen sale through May 17. Proceeds will go towards financing of new baseball fields.

Pens will be sold five for $1.25, including a coupon for Pizza Arcade. Livermore American players will be soliciting door-to-door.

For the love of money

Mike Zampa

As a concessicn to working parents and the almighty, (we're speaking of the dollar of course) the EBAL has concluded that it should carry on its track and field championships Wednesday evening at Amador Valley HighSchool.

The competition will begin with the pole vault at 6 p.m., and climax hours later under the lights. Tickets will cost $1.50.

Trials for the Wednesday meet will be staged Monday afternoon at Amador, beginning at 2.

This will be the first time the championships have ever been staged at night. "At least to my memory it's the first," EBAL secretary George Wilson says.

"The idea is to give more people an opportunity to see the meet, and just to try it out, to see how it works."

And if the league can pick up a few extra bucks by drawing from a larger night time audience, well that's not too bad either. Unless Pleasanton is blanketed with seasonal evening fog from the Pacific Ocean. Then the temperature is likely to drop down near 50, folks will stay home, and competitors will run the risk of injury.

"If the weather's cold, someone could pull a muscle," Livermore 440 runner Rich Sessions pointed out last week. "I've had a groin pull for about three weeks now," he added with a reluctant look ahead to Wednesday.

The import of Wednesday's meet is qualifying people for North Coast competition, an intermediary step to the State Championship in San Diego.

If the evening is chilly however, potential qualifiers could be eliminated by muscle pulls and tears. That might render the EBAL's night time experiment a failure and hasten a return to the afternoon for next May.

Injuries would be a serious blow to EBAL hopes of success in the North Coast and State meets. Based on current times, there aren't that many competitors capable of qualifying.

As of last weekend, only six EBAL athletes were rated among the top 10 East Bay leaders in various events. Roy Kissin is first in the two mile, and eighth in the 880. Dan King had run the ninth fastest 220 by last Saturday, and Matt Priewe was seventh in the 440. Andy Finn's 6-6 high jump was good for seventh place, and Kris Hollmer was eighth in the pole vault. Amador's 440 relay rested in 10th place, and San Ramon was sixth in the mile relay.

It might take a gun to prevent Kissin from becoming the state's two-mile champion. Only a handful of other EBAL competitors, however, will qualify for the meet in Balboa Stadium.

San Ramon's mile relay quartet of Priewe, Tim O'Donnell Paul Swenson, and either Paul Klinger or Fritz Venker, could be factor. The Wolves have run a best of 3:30 this season, but according to Priewe, should slash seven seconds off that time. "We've done all the physical work," Priewe says; "now we just have to work on our minds. We don't hang around in a clique at school, but we're together a lot at practice."

Priewe will be involved in one of the best competitions at Amador Wednesday, the 440 finals. He is the league's fastest quarter-miler at 50.5, just a tenth of a second ahead of teammate O'Donnell. Sessions, who has gone 51.2 early in the year, may challenge. Another factor will be King, who rumor says, will drop the 100 and 220, where he could win easily, to fight for the 440 title.

The caliber of the field should force one of those runners under 50 seconds. It's going to take more than that, however, Priewe says, to make a dent in the State field.

"Guys like Dedy Copper (Harry Ells High) were running 47 (actually 48.2 which aint crawling) in the State Meet last year," Priewe points out shaking his head.

Though the EBAL doesn't possess the explosive talents of a Cooper, who is also running 13.6 in the high hurdles, the league championships should be entertaining. In its own sphere, the competition is good.

"I really enjoy running in this league because I have a lot of friends at the other schools," Priewe says. "When we win races we don't go around telling people we're great, because we read the papers and see what the guys in Oakland and Berkeley are doing. We know we're not that big. But we like running against each other. That's why winning the league championship was so important to me, because this is my last year, and I won't run with these guys again."

The uproar created by Section and State championship meets has dimmed the luster of local competition. The battle between two schools, or even a whole league is diminished by comparisons to athletes up and down the state.

They don't ask a runner if he's going to win anymore. They just want to know if he'll go fast enough to scare the pants off all the cookers from El Cerrito to Los Angeles.

Wednesday we ought to turn focus back to the race at hand. The concept is still to run faster than the rest of the guys on the track. You can't race a newspaper log.

The events should be tightly contested, and times and distances are likely to improve.

Give the man credit for being best in his venue. Then bring on Dedy.

Air pollution hits Exxon, 7-2

Wright Air scored seven times in the fourth and fifth innings to beat Frank's Exxon, 7-2, in Dublin Valley major league baseball.

Cam Whitty was the winning pitcher on a three-hitter. He walked only one, and struck out five.

Harold Amerino drove in two runs fog the winners, and Whitty and Dan Scott both had single RBI's.

Todd Lemos singled home a run for Frank's.

Phil Hampton twirled a three-hitter with eight strikeouts as Rich's Chevron blanked Romley's, 2-0. Ken Buehler had two hits for the winners, including a double.

The minor league Exchange Club crushed Televue, 16-4. Rodney Scott, Rusty Scott and Todd Warrington all had two hits for the winners. Scott drove in three runs. Warrington and Larry Heffington each had two RBI's. Pat Pherson homered and doubled for Televue.

Yangtze Restaurant beat Drug City in the training division, 20-13. John O'Brien drove in four runs. Matt McFarlane and Chris Jensen drove in two runs apiece. Matt Fix played fine defense.

Granada

Tony Saputo pitched a four-hitter to shoot Amador Styling past Red Carpet Realty, 3-1, in Granada farm league baseball Wednesday.

Saputo also had two hits to pace the Yankee offense. Kenneth Petlansky singled for the winners.

The Cards' Mike Ross singled home a run.

Astro Rentals posted two runs in the sixth inning to overcome Granada Chevron, 3-1. Mark Timm drove in a run for the Pirates, and Ron Jackson had a base hit. Jim Hughes of the A's had an RBI.

Jamison Printing whacked Paul Marsh Shell, 12-2 Eric Wood and Tom Barritt each drove in two runs. Charlie White tripled. For Marsh, Robbie Light singled home a run.

Arrow Rentals rode Jeff Nichols' first inning two-run homer to a 5-2 dec ision over Auto Plus. Scott Ford drove in two more runs with a double. Mike Riehl of Auto Plus singled twice

CV just too tough

A sparse contigent of EBAL spikers had very little impact at the annual Castro Valley Invitational track meet yesterday.

However, while neither Dublin or Livermore could score a single point in the team standings, several individuals turned in top notch performances.

Spotlighting the quality of competition in the meet, the Cowboys' Boyd Tarin shattered the school record in the two mile by over five seconds, yet came in sixth behind Devon Flynn of Acalanes, who broke the meet record with a 9:21-flat.

Tarin ran a 9:38.5 to break the old 'Poke standard of 9:43.9, ironically set in this same meet four years ago.

In the same event the Gaels' Dan Harvey came up with a personal best of 9:44, but finished well back in the fast-moving pack.

Two Livermore "B" performers were the only other EBAL competitors to rate mention.

Curtis Williams ran his best 880 of the year, finishing sixth with a 2:02.9 and Bill Barnett bounded to a 15.3 in the high hurdles.

Water safety rules stressed

The summer swimming season is fast approaching. Families, young adults and children will soon be flocking to pools, lakes, rivers and beaches to enjoy water recreation.

Unfortunately, there will be accidents, many of which might be prevented if proper safety measures would be observed. Water safety is often not a case of expensive equipment or extensive training, but merely developing an awareness of safety in and about the water.

√ Enforce common sense safety rules at all times.

√ Make sure at least one responsible person knows how to administer artificial respiration and give proper first aid.

√ Encourage responsible parents or other adults to give water safety and swimming instructions to youngsters.

√ Have an adequate first aid kit available.

In valley communities, the practice on "Resusa-Annie." Safety brochures and emergency telephone number stickers will be available. There will be no charge.

For further information about that program, call 846-1720 or 846-3202, extension 215. For further information about aquatics programs in Livermore and Dublin, call the Livermore Area Recreation and Park District at 447-7300 or the Valley Community Services District Recreation Department at 828-7711.

Unprotected backyard pools and inquisitive children can sometimes lead to tragedy, as Michelle Baker and Jeff Sobrero demonstrate above.

Chabot offers dental course

Chabot College will offer a course in Preventive Dental Care for licensed nursing home personnel at the Pleasanton Convalescent Hospital, 300 Neal Street, from 2 - 6 p.m. on May 21 and May 28.

Donna Barnes, Chabot College Dental Hygiene instructor, said the course had been developed as the result of several requests from nursing and convalescent care personnel. It is approved by the State Board of Nursing Home Administrators.

The course involves participants in learning skills, including examining nursing home patients for oral lesions, the techniques of oral hygiene, and lectures on oral cancer and other dental diseases.

For the past few years, Barnes has conducted such instruction upon request. Finally, she explained, the requests grew so numerous that a specific course was developed. It was first taught at the Eden West Rehabilitation Hospital in Hayward last January.

Although the class will be held in the Valley, it is open to nursing home personnel through-out the South County Community College District. Interested individuals may register at the first class session.

Red Cross extends life aid

Cardio-Pulmonary Resuscitation, commonly referred to as CPR, a life support care for heart attack victims, has recently been incorporated into Red Cross Life Saving programs.

The Red Cross instructional program is intended to first train police, fire and rescue squad members, families of cardiac patients and other specific-need groups.

Consisting of rhythmic pressure on the victim's chest about the heart alternated with mouth-to-mouth resuscitation, the method recently succeeded in saving the life of a 15 year old boy in Livermore, who stopped breathing and showed no pulse as a result nf inhaling toxic vapors.

For information concerning Red Cross courses on CPR, interested persons may contact local Red Cross offices in Oakland at 533-2321 or in Livermore at 443-3910.

The National American Red Cross, the leading authority on water safety includes the following rules for personal water safety in its "Lifesaving and Water Safety" text.

√ Learn to swim well enough to survive in an emergency.

√ Never swim alone and swim only with a "buddy" who has the ability to help when necessary.

√ Swim only in supervised areas.

√ Learn simple and safe reaching resuces.

√ Know how to administer artificial respiration.

√ Know your limitations and do not overestimate your ability.

√ Do not substitute inflated tubes, air mattresses, or other artificial supports for swimming ability.

In communities where many homes have a backyard pool, home pool safety is of particular concern. The following safety rules for home pools are included in the Red Cross book.

√ Never permit anyone to swim alone. Constant and responsible supervision is a must. Never leave a child unattended in the pool area, even for the length of time it takes to answer the telephone or front door.

√ See that the pool has adequate fencing and a gate with a lock to prevent children from unauthorized entry.

√ Keep basic rescue and lifesaving equipment readily available.

fire department is the proper support service to call if you have an aquatic emergency. Not only are the members of the fire department trained in first aid, artificial respiration, and cardiopulmonary resuscitation, but they have the proper equipment to respond to such an emergency.

The Pleasanton Recreation Department, in cooperation with the Pleasanton Fire Department and the Oakland-South Alameda County Chapter of the Red Cross, has planned two safety program evenings, May 15 and May 22 at 7:30 p.m. at the Recreation Building adjacent to the Aquatic Center on Black Avenue.

The two programs will be identical and will each cover several areas of water safety with particular attention to backyard pool safety. Participants will see demonstrations of mouth-to-mouth and will have the opportunity to

Lab staff shows wide choice for residency

Livermore is declining in popularity as a home for Lawrence Livermore Laboratory employes, according to figures released by the Lab.

A majority of LLL employes (56.1 per cent) still live in Livermore but 1.1 per cent fewer are residents of the east valley town this year than lived there last November.

Pleasanton is a distant second in popularity, boasting 418 LLL employes, or 7.4 per cent of the total work force. The Lab employs 5659 people now, a jump of over 400 from May of 1974.

Surprisingly, Dublin accounts for only 1.3 per cent of the Lab workers and San Ramon for only 1 per cent. Tracy, with 4.3 per cent of the work force, is the third most popular home and actually has more LLL employes than Dublin and San Ramon combined.

For that matter, Oakland, Castro Valley, Danville and Hayward all possess more than 2.3 per cent of the workers with Walnut Creek and Fremont just below that mark.

Berkeley, San Leandro, Stockton and Alamo all have 1 per cent or over while Concord, San Jose, San Lorenzo and Brentwood range from 0.5 per cent to 1 per cent.

Pleasant Hill, Lafayette and Manteca all have over 20 Lab residents while 322 (or 5.7 per cent) live in other communities.

Over 64 per cent of the employes live in Livermore, Pleasanton or Brentwood while the communities of San Leandro, San Lorenzo, Hayward and Castro Valley have the second largest contingent — though it totals only 7.1 per cent.

The Danville-Dublin-San Ramon-Alamo claims 5.8 per cent of the workers while northern Alameda County-plus Richmond and El Cerrito accounts for 4.9 per cent.

The San Joaquin County residents make up 5.8 per cent of the work force and the central Contra Costa County suburban communities supply 4.2 per cent of the employes.

Real Estate Sales and Listings Break Previous April Records

Real Estate activity throughout the state continues to move at a brisk pace, according the sources at the Southern Alameda County Board of Realtors. "Listings and sales have exceeded all previous records for the month of April," says Phil Pridham, chairman of SACBOR's Multiple Listing Service.

"1,249 listings were placed on the service of California's seventh largest Real Estate Board of which 1,114 were reported as sold, or 88% of those listed sold."

Dollar volume of these sold properties was in excess of 46 million dollars or an average sale of over $40,000.00.

Listings placed in the service with a Realtor remain on the MLS for an average of 48 days.

Heavy volume is expected to continue throughout the summer.

Realtor official knocks land bill

Noting that Assembly Bill 15 "controls prime farm land and potential prime farmland," the president of the California Association of Realtors today called attention to all Californians that "AB 15 would also place prime lands under state control."

Richard C. Farrer of Hayward, head of the 78,000 - member organization, labeled the bill, authored by Charles Warren (D - Los Angeles), as one in which there is "a change in philosophy from the free enterprise system to socialism."

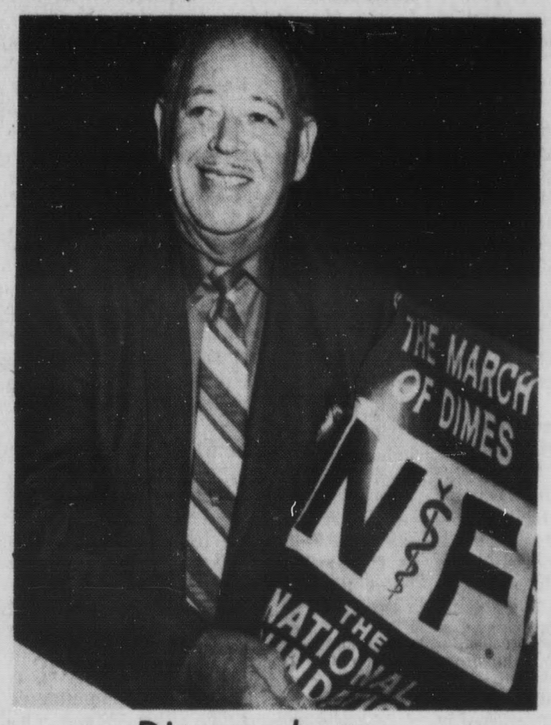
"Is all land 'sacred?' Soon the only areas for homes, shops and factories will be mountain ranges. Is it to be that future growth on the coast and on farm land is to be eliminted entirely?"

The realtor leader said that preservation of farm land in California would not be for the benefit of all citizens in the state.

"Californians should be concerned about the effects of this bill," the CAR president stated, "and especially the risk factors involved such as labor conditions, market demands and weather."

AB 15 would create a five - member Agricultural Resources Council to administer provisions of the act. Upon enactment, no development would be permitted on prime agricultural land except for limited uses.

AB 15 passed the Assembly Resources and Land Use Committee last month by a vote of 8 - 5, and now goes to the Assembly Ways and Means Committee to await further action.



Dimes champ

Walt Packard, Valley restauranteur, recaptured first place in the county - wide cocktail lounge contest in the 1975 March of Dimes. He received the first - place plaque from Frank I. Madigan, county campaign chairman, to be placed in the Starting Gate of Pleasanton. Packard has won the prize many times before and since 1940 has raised over $40,000. Other contest winners in Pleasanton were Hap's second, and the Pleasanton Lounge, third. The Starting Gate patrons donated $745.

TRI-VALLEY Sales Competition Results in Three-Way Tie

To generate enthusiasm and mark their move to new offices, the staff of TRI-VALLEY BROKERS, 268 Main St., Pleasanton, held a competition to see who would sell the first property. A three-way tie resulted and the winners are shown below with thier clients and pleased new home owners. Office manager, Herb Singleton, George Perata and Doris Gibson, along with the rest of TRI-VALLEY's staff feel they are off to a good start in their new quarters next to the Gay Nineties Pizza.

An Editorial

The county needs to get its 'spheres' straight

The "overriding consideration" offered by that county authority in the matter of a "single sphere of influence for the Amador Valley," was most impressive. But it was hardly consistent with a lot of other things various branches of that same county government have been telling us, and showing us, over the past ten years.

The audience assembled to hear that Local Agency Formation Commission spokesman can be forgiven for not taking Roland Mayne's "facts" at face value. While the evidence for "a single municipality" binding Pleasanton and Dublin and their immediate environs might be convincing, the evidence of the county's own actions relative to avoiding such "problem areas" in the first place is somewhat discouraging. It also tends to make a 1975 generation of valley residents suspicious of what a 1980 county board might do, in the light of what has transpired since 1960.

Forgetting the "fiscal logic favoring one city" for a moment there is this history of Alameda County action relative to the eastern hinterland:

◆The county (speaking through LAFCO) in 1975 expresses concern for the "unincorporated urban pocket" we know as Dublin. But that particular urban spread would not exist today if the same county agencies had not — some 16 years ago — approved and even encouraged the Volk-McLain development team to launch its "San Ramon Village" — a venture which gave birth to some 7600 "unincorporated" dwelling units on both sides of the county line;

◆ The county now suggests that "cities like Pleasanton have some responsibility" in lending direction to land planning for adjacent parcels . . . and yet when Pleasanton fought mightily to reserve all of the land immediately south of I-580 (and surrounding that VCSD sewer plant) for industrial uses, the county upstaged the local authority, granted Volk-McLain residential permits for what is now the Val Vista tract, and left the community, and the subsequent home owners, to grapple with the resylting problems of sewer odors, traffic congestion and proper freeway access;

◆The City of Livermore had been struggling for some five years with overcrowded schools, overtaxed utilities and the threat of a crisis on both counts when a bold new development venture was proposed for Las Positas Valley. Livermore said "No!" to that scheme; the county agencies (including LAFCO) have in effect said "Yes." And so what does that do for "the strength of the municipal system"?

There is more. When the valley's three urban centers united in a strong stand against becoming "the Bay Area's garbage dump," several county and regional agencies said "This is not your decision to make." Conversely, when Pleasanton could find merit in converting a rugged Sunol ranch into a commercial recreation venture, there were many "higher authorities" ready to challenge and reverse that local determination.

So our relationship with county and regional government in matters of "sound land use" has not been all that good. It is not really a question of whether "we were right" and "they are always wrong." It is more a concern for finding common ground, and firm standards, on which to evaluate our past, and make plans for our future. It is because we lack such standards that intelligent people can listen today to the LAFCO pitch for "solving this valley's urban problems," and ask quite simply: "Who are you kidding?"

Those who stay home

"Educational" trips — the $13 per student one-day tour of Sacramento, the $50 week in the Santa Cruz mountains and the $1,000 European jaunt — are proliferating as more parents appreciate the need for their children to broaden their horizons.

So are exchange-student programs and music festivals and campouts. Who would argue with the idea that experience is the best teacher, that meeting new people and seeing new terrain is far more valuable than trying to learn about faraway places out of a textbook?

But there's a thin line between planning a worthy educational field trip and latching onto some commercial enterprise because it gets the kids off everybody's back for a day (or a week) and makes the school look good.

There is also a thin line between teachers chaperoning an educational tour and educators getting into the tour business as a sideline.

In an area like the Valley, most parents can afford the price of a school tour, especially when it is partly financed by candy sales and car washes and pizza nights.

They can also afford to plan educational activities on their own, and may well find they can do a much cheaper and more satisfying job of it as a family than a tour company can. Those "group rates" are sometimes more expensive than well-planned individual trips need to be, whether to Sacramento or to Europe.

Big music festivals are fun and exciting; students are able to hear the techniques of good musicians from afar. All those "superior" and "first place" ratings they consistently bring back from no matter where are legitimate, because participants are the "creme de la creme" of musical groups in the first place, it is noted. But the festivals are a commercial enterprise too. Virtually every band and choir take home a trophy; all festival organizers are paid for their effort; the teachers who chaperone the group to Seattle or Reno or Hawaii or Paris have their way paid.

Aside from the commercial aspect of school-sponsored trips, there's the human angle. Somebody always gets left behind. And it's usually the kids who need the trip most, those whose parents can't or don't want to afford the school trip or any private trips, either.

It may be the student who needs to work over Easter vacation who can't go to Disneyland or Mexico with the gang. It may also be the child whose parents can't afford the "spending money."

Whatever the circumstances, being left behind is sure to thrust a student father into the fringes, father away from the advantaged who shall inherit the earth.

The week in retrospect

Room for no more

He stood in front of the cameras and pontificated on how we've always embraced immigrants, how this country was based on extending the hand of friendship and help to the friendless, the outcast, the tired and weak.

At about the same time as Joe Alioto was saying San Francisco's "door" was open to Vietnam refugees, Sen. George McGovern was doing a little pontificating of his own as regards this country's relationship with Cuba. Two seemingly disparate commentaries that represented how Americans should consider the government and citizens of two other countries.

This is not to exclude some comments made by the President, rather strong ones for Gerald Ford, on accepting Vietnamese refugees into our country, yes into our homes.

In all these well-publicized commentaries, I am struck by the willingness of our leaders to commit our tax monies and efforts to helping other peoples without any degree of advance planning (in the case of the refugees).

This writer is not so heartless that he would have this country turn its back on the homeless and undernourished waifs of Vietnam. They are appealing and so in need of the help anyone can give.... anyone in THE WORLD that is.

But trying to support in excess of 130,000 refugees is another matter. I'm talking about adults, such as Nguyen Cao Ky. You may remember him, he was president of South Vietnam for a while, headed up the air force and had a penchant for wearing his brass-studded uniform with a smart blue scarf. He's the same guy that some junior college district offered the position of presidency to this past week.

Now he's the type of refugee this country really doesn't need. And the same goes for thousands of others now at camps in Florida, Arkansas and Camp Pendleton here in California who left with considerably more than the shirts on their backs. Or, if they didn't, they knew Uncle Sugar would take good care of them....just like we've been doing for 11 years.

For it is a well-known fact that "losers" become winners when the tentacles of our foreign policies embrace them. May I cite the examples of Japan and Germany.

That's why McGovern has been getting so much ink on his Cuba commentaries. If McGovern and his ilk in Congress get their way....and they will ... our "policy" as regards Cuba will be changing rather soon. Look forward to seeing a bundle of our tax dollars going to Cuba in some sort of "reciprocal" deal.

Something like we'll send them wheat and they'll send us disgruntled Cubans who want to live in New York. What McGovern, and so many of our policy shapers haven't learned is that this country is no longer in a position to give out billions in "good will" as a reciprocity lure ... if for no other reason than we're being priced and legislated right into the poor house here at home. Nor are these billions necessarily buying us "detente," that Kissinger-engendered euphemism for keeping the sabre-rattling down.

It is long past time that our elected representatives and their bureacratic cousins listened to their constituents ... I mean really listen.

What they would hear in the case of Vietnam is that a lot of us do not wish to support the refugees, nor do we want to beg Fidel Castro's banana commune for his goodwill.

Letters to the Editor

High administration costs

Editor, The Times:

A recent letter to all three newspapers contained information that will, I believe, only confuse the public. I refer to a letter by Mr. Lloyd Teel of the Livermore Administration Association.

Mr. Teel disputed a public statement that our Livermore school administrators received an 11 per cent raise last year. But curiously, in the entirety of his letter there was information only about school principals.

Now of course we have district administrators and we have school principals. The latter in reality continue in their posts if they stay in good graces of the administrators.

Let's assume that Mr. Teel is right — that the principals received on the average about a 7.7 per cent raise last year. But if Mr. Teel checks newspaper accounts I believe he'll find that the district administrators received on the average an 11 per cent raise last year.

For example, Mr. Croce received only a token raise, but is now making as much as Wilson Riles, head of public education in California. I confidently expect Mr. Croce to leapfrog ahead this year. Some of our other administrators won't be far behind.!

Another important point concerns timing. Teachers and the classified personnel (secretaries, custodians etc.) are now required to make their salary/fringe benefits demands public by I believe April 1. (Traditionally these demands are in all the papers throughout the spring). By contrast, neither the administrators nor the principals abide by this rule.

As a consequence, the teachers suffer considerable adverse public reaction to their demands. The adminstrators and principals are spared all this. Then later on in the summer when many of us are on vacations, the administrators and principals generously help themselves to all that the teachers had to vigorously negotiate for. Often it's a bigger helping of the pie!

I hope that this clears up some of the who, when, why and how of the situation.

Council nominee

Open Letter to the Members of the City Council:

The people of Livermore should have a voice in the city government. The working people, who make up the biggest part of the city's bills, whether the money comes from city, county, state or federal taxes.

We like the way Mr. Ray Faltings speaks up for the people who foot the bills. We want you to consider Mr. Faltings as a candidate for city councilman, to fill out the vacancy until the next election.

Mr. Faltings works at Sandia and the city council has no one like him: He is a former school administrator who is very tax conscious, expecially where taxes affect those with fixed incomes which do not get raises every time the cost of living index increases.

He is a responsive, mature, courteous, level-headed working man, with real community spirit, who has hours of volunteer work to his credit. You could not do any better. Also, he is not on the Planning Commission.

Sound and Fury

Walt Hecox

They call themselves Alcoholics Anonymous; so for that reason, if none other, the Dublin businessman shall remain nameless.

Out on the golf course the ladies of the San Ramon National Women's Club were playing for their club championship, taking time to drop into the bar where they purchased candy to provide themselves with energy while they made the turn into the second nine holes.

He invited me to sit and chat with him, a gracious laddie and completely relaxed, radiating good humor and the comfortable manner of a member of the upper middle class who had never known a severe crisis of any kind. Eventually we talked about our spare time and it was then he said, "You may find it hard to believe, but I take a great deal of pleasure sometimes in just doing nothing. A man has to learn to live with himself before he is able to do that, and it took me a long time to learn."

Perhaps it was because he had attended a meeting of his unit the night before, or maybe it was only a pleasant topic for conversation for him; but, whatever the case, he started talking about Alcoholics Anonymous.

"My life changed completely when I joined the organization eight years ago," he told me. "Different things mean a lot to different people. Alcoholics Anonymous helped me to find myself."

It was in 1950 when I did my series on AA for the McClatchy Newspaper chain and some 14 years later when I traveled to Menlo Park for a visit with Monk Moscrip, a former All American end at Stanford University.

I talked with Monk for maybe three hours. When we finished talking, I went home and wrote a story which ran in Man's Magazine under the title "I spilled more booze than most people drink."

"We don't try to recuit people or force them into giving up alcohol," the Dublin businessman told me. "Folks must want to stop drinking in order for us to help, must recognize the fact they are alcoholics. We learn to look at ourselves and understand ourselves and our affliction. Alcoholism is an affliction for some of us."

Moscrip had looked at himself one January during a miserable moment following a disasterous holiday season and decided he must do something to save himself or lose everything. He entered the hospital where he was employed as the administrator at the time I talked to him, a place which reformed alcoholics by establishing a conditioned reflex which made the mere smell of a drink intolerable. The approach was brutal but the results eminently successful. "We learn to help each other and have faith in ourselves," the Dublin businessman said. "Somewhere when we were very young, no more than seven years old, we became insecure and looked for an escape from the world. When we were old enough, we found self confidence in liquor. If one drink helped, two were better until eventually a hundred were not enough."

It was in the winter of 1964 when I hired the young man right out of the alcoholic ward from Agnew State Hospital, a move I would never have made had he not had such a glowing recommendation from Pete Winslow. "If he takes one drink, fire him," Winslow advised. The young fellow was all Pete had said and more; so, when he took his first drink, I did not fire him despite Pete's protests. Pretty soon I was getting him out of Santa Rita every Monday morning.

"Drinking is not bad, not bad at all for most people," the Dublin businessman said. "Some of us can't handle it. We have members who decide they will just have a glass of wine with dinner and before we know, they are lost and they come back a year later broke, just out of jail and their families gone . One drink is too many for most of them."

Eventually I fired the young man with a taste for booze and the brilliant talent and then hired him back that same day when he came through with an effort which could have only been a product of genius. He stayed dry for a year and then he had that one drink.

"You might not believe it, but eight years ago I didn't have a thing in the world. I lost my family, my job, my home and I was flat broke. Some people must go that way. Then I realized I was an alcoholic and looked for help and found AA and my salvation."

Eventually there were too many trips not only to Santa Rita but to the Bearcat, a saloon which was right next door, so I fired the young man, turning a deaf ear to all his pleas and promises and did not hear him again until he entered Synanon House and became a favorite of Chuck Dedrick.

"When we lose a member, we take him back when he is ready," the Dublin businessman said. "The theory of AA is not religious, but we do believe we must have help from a higher being. When a member needs help, we extend all we can give."

Synanon is not quite that forgiving and the young man flunked out eventually spending some time in jail and skid road and the last I heard he was dry in Sacramento.

"AA has done a lot for me," the Dublin businessman said. "From nothing I now make $40,000 a year, I have a wonderful wife and a beautiful home on a high hill in Walnut Creek. My life has changed completely and I have been happy these eight years."

I thought about the boy with the touch of genious and great thirst and hoped he was doing as well.

round the town

Now that the flood has eased a little, and you can step out the door without falling into a great water hole, there is the temptation to explore the world beyond. The green hills are calling. So is the back lawn.

"If it gets any higher, you'll be complaining you can't cut it because of your back, or something." She has a way of getting right to the point.

"The lawnmower needs sharpening," I recall with great relief. I am spared, for at least another day I am one Christian who maintains the Creator really goofed when he timed the resurrgence of lawn grass with man's own springtime hunger for the out-of-doors. The overlap is criminal.

"You were going to do something with that back bank, she reminded me. We are always "going to do something with that back bank." It is our family cross. To solve the problem once and for all would be like erasing mortal sin. I have come to the conclusion the back bank must remain, pretty much as is, to prove we are mere mortals. With mortal problems.

There are others whose thoughts turn elsewhere with the arrival of spring. Take Charles J. Fracisco. for instance. Charlie has his young spring heart set on a class reunion. It would be something more than your standard ten-year revival.

"In June of this year our class of 1925 will be celebrating it's 50th anniversary," Charlie reminds us. Such an occasion deserves a festive salute, and Livermore's "Mr. Eagle" (not to mention "Mr. Lions Club" and a few more) is just the gent to pull it all together.

The Class of 1925 was the "very first to complete a full year of study in the brand new Amador High School," Charlie notes with pride. His diligent research reveals that 12 members of that class of 14 boys and girls are still with us, so to speak. Seven of them including Charlie have remained in the valley — Mrs. George (Carmen Cope) Fernand, Mrs. Hugh (Dagmar Orloff) Fulton, Mrs. Wm. (Zelda Garatti) Brenner, Mrs. Alan (Donna Ziegenfuss) Henry, Frank Terra and Beuford Hall. The others are scattered from Los Altos to Bakersfield.

"We have also made contact with one of our teachers, and hope to have him present at the reunion," Charlie says. A prime rib dinner at Castlewood Country Club, June 14, $8.50 per person. That's the format. Which proves the '25 vintage still has plenty of sparkle.

None of the above is to be confused with that other class reunion. The original Pleasanton Grammar School gang. Since the place burned down around 1909, you get some idea as to the years transpired since the grammar school kids completed that phase of their education. But the flame still roars within.

Thirty people are listed as "members of the organizing committee." So there's a bunch of 'em still on the scene. We were their special guests at the first Grammar School Reunion, last spring. Liveliest party of the year.

"We've scheduled the reunion for Castelwood on May 29," Art Mendonca advises. "It will be a lunch, because some of the students aren't allowed to drive at night." Some of the students aren't even allowed out of bed! — but that won't keep 'em from the party It's an absolute must affair.

The program they mailed out (to about 80 surviving classmates, I am informed) includes a "how to get there" map by Gus Schneider. Gus is a commercial artist who learned his trade turning out those wild posters for the show houses of yesteryear . . . the ones that pulled customers off of the street and into the silent screen epic. The posters helped make up for the lack of sound.

The Schneider map is illustrated . . . showing carloads of swinging classmates headed for Castlewood. They are all riding convertibles, I noticed.

Also noted is that the "social hour" — a time for "renewing old acquaintances" — runs from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m That's a lot of socializing. But from last year's experience, I can assure you that the Grammar School Gang is up to the challenge.

***

This is also that Sunday in spring when one must plan something festive. In honor of mother. Given the status of marriage and motherhood these days (the former is in more trouble than even the latter) it seems appropriate that we recognize the Moms of the world.

"I had in mind a festive day at the ball park, eating peanuts and consuming a beer or two while Reggie Jackson does his thing — provided he's out of the American League pokey," I announce.

"I had in mind a day at home for a change, just catching up on some of those household chores . . . maybe even doing the spring planting, while it's still spring," she responds.

"Who ever heard of staying home and 'doing chores' on Mother's Day? I figured on getting you out of the place, far from the world's travail, and all that."

"I figured on getting that lawn cut while we can see across the yard," she says. "And if we ever get that finished, we could pick up some plants from the nursery for that back bank . . ."

"Well, whatever you have in mind, make sure we can get it done by 12 noon," I remind her. "It's the Warriors versus the Bulls on national TV for the crucial sixth game of the series. You sure don't want to miss that."

"No dear," she says sweetly. "Especially not on Mother's Day."

I knew we could find some festive way to honor her, if we just put our minds to it.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) This is a time to try to consolidate your resources. Don't be vague about plans. Know exactly how to spend each penny.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You'll be aware innately of what's best for your self-interests today, yet you'll do something of small benefit to yourself.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You must have the courage of your convictions if you expect others to go along with your aims today. Hestiate, and so will they.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Don't undertake projects now that you feel are beyond your scope. Be honest about your talents and abilities.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) What you want to accomplish today you can do. Try not to rely upon others who lack a grasp of the situation.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You must stand by your own decisions today to get the results you hoped for. Don't worry. Mistakes can be corrected.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You'd be wise to keep something confidential to yourself today where you're involved in with another.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Be sure you fully understand all the terms in any agreement you enter into today. Carelessness will prove expensive.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Don't let your productive intentions slip by the board. You're a trifle lazy today. It will take some self-prodding.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Others recognize and appreciate your leadership qualities today. If something comes to a standstill, take over.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Attend first to duties important to the entire household. Play later, after they're attended to.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Don't waste a lot of time today trying to get others to do things you alone are interested in. Go it alone if necessary.

Your Birthday

May 11, 1975

You will form a valuable association this year with a new, enterprising friend. Collectively, you will attempt bolder aims than you would individually.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Jim: "The Bols bridge tips competition is certainly bringing out some fine tips from the masters."

Oswald: "Giorgio Belladonna of Italy may well be the best player in the world. His tip is, 'The most powerful card is the ace of trumps. When you are lucky enough to hold it, try to play it at the right time.'"

Jim: "The hand isn't really complicated. North and South have 27 high-card points and reach what turns out to be an optimistic game contract after West's opening bid."

Oswald: "Giorgio suggests that after winning the first heart, South should cross to dummy, play the six of spades and go up with the king."

Jim: "That play is designed to encourage West to use his ace of trumps right then and there. If he does, South will make his contract. West will lead the queen and jack of hearts, but South will discard a losing club and West will have his last trick."

Oswald: "West can beat the contract by refusing both the first and second trump leads. If South plays a third trump you take your ace, lead hearts and beat him two tricks. If South abandons trumps you make your last small trump and beat him one trick."

F. Mori opposes sex bill

SACRAMENTO — Valley representative Floyd Mori voted with the majority of the state Assembly on three measures last week, but cast a negative vote on the controversial bill legalizing specified homosexual and hetrosexual acts.

Mori voted with the 38 - 34 majority in defeating Sen. George Moscone's (D-San Francisco) move to ease penalities for possession of small amounts of marijuana, but cast a no vote on Assemblyman Willie Brown's measure to legalize specific sexual acts.

The Brown bill passed on a 46 - 28 vote, and has been sent to the governor. Gov. Edmund G. Brown, Jr., is expected to sign the measure.

Mori also voted with a 61 - 10 majority as the Assembly concurred in Senate amendments to a measure which would eliminate the oil depletion allowance for major oil companies in the state.

The Monday vote sent AB 177 by Assemblyman Bill Lockyer to the governor.

The public is invited to brouse through the market which promises "bargains" by the dozen.

Livermore Valley tagged as worst in air quality

Livermore had the worst overall air quality in the Bay Area in 1974, according to figures released by the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District (BAAPCD).

Livermore and San Jose ran a close one-two in violations of air quality standards with Livermore residents breathing more oxidants and total suspended particulates (TSP) than any other area while San Jose suffered from carbon monoxide and nitrogen oxide problems.

Livermore was the only valley station and it recorded 28 parts per million (ppm) of oxidants on its worst day, which is nearly four times the federal standards.

Air quality in Livermore exceeded the state standard (10 ppm) in oxidants 83 days in 1974 as well as topping the federal standard (8 ppm) 93 times.

San Jose and Los Gatos were the only other communities of the 24 testing stations to violate oxidant air standards 50 times during the year. Oakland, for example, only had three violations in 1974 while Walnut Creek topped the 10 ppm standard 18 times.

Livermore violated state standards in total suspended particulates (TSP) nearly twice as often as the second worst city — Vallejo — and nearly four times as often as the fourth worst city.

TSP levels were higher than acceptable on 28.2 per cent of the observed days in Livermore, while Vallejo was in violation 14.3 per cent of the time.

Concord, for example, suffered high TSP counts only 5 per cent of the time and Sunnyvale exceeded the limits only 2.5 per cent of the time.

However, not once did east valley air quality violate standards in carbon monoxide, nitrogen oxide or sulfate concentration while San Jose and Vallejo had 14 days each over CO limits.

San Jose also topped the list with four days over nitrogen oxide regulations. No violations of SO2 air quality standards were recorded.

Mayors oppose curbside mail

ALBANY — A controversial postal service edict which requires all new subdivisions to install curbside mailboxes was unanimously opposed by the Alameda County Mayors' Conference Wednesday night.

Pleasanton has opposed the postal service requirement and still has in effect an ordinance which prohibits the curbside boxes. Thus, residents in new subdivisions must travel to the main post office to pick up their mail.

Valley youths keep activities moving

Dublin cheer leaders

A judging staff of eight faculty members and students has selected, from left, Jan Jenkins, Sharon Anderson, Kelly Conway and Angi Loder as junior varsity cheer leaders at Dublin High for 1975-76. Girls are charged with whipping up spirit for JV athletic contests. Their advisor is Judy Wahlander.

Sorting it out

Nancy Gerg (left), Fred Colberg (top) and Rene Hoefer sort out some of the 2000 - plus articles of clothing that have been collected for the Catholic Daughters by Wells School students. The project was the brainchild of Cindy Heinbuch's Homeroom 7H, and this stack (only part of the haul) represents just one week's worth of collecting. The Catholic Daughters distribute the clothes free to needy families in the area.

Ann Landers
Friend poses a problem

Dear Ann Landers: I am such a nervous wreck I can barely hold this pen. You can see how shaky my handwriting is.

I just spent one hour and ten minutes on the phone. I didn't say 10 words. This elderly friend of mine talked the whole time. She was giving me holy h--- for not coming to see her in four days.

The fact that I spend at least 45 minutes on the telephone with her every day didn't mean a thing.

Does age give people the right to demand they be catered to?

True, we've been friends for many years but I'm sick of her unceasing demands, terrible temper, endless prattle, malicious gossip and finally her self pity, which drives me up the wall.

This woman is not ill. She has money. She can do a great many things others her age cannot do, but she just loves to run me ragged.

I feel sorry for her because I am her only friend. The others have all had it up to here and decided to let her wallow — alone.

Should I drop her — or go on being a martyr and consider it my cross to bear? What would YOU do? - Blipped

Dear B.: I'm not you and you aren't me. Only YOU know the depths of your need for martyrdom.

Your friend (?) is not going to change. It's up to you to decide how much more punishment you want — or need.

***

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a 17 - year - old high school junior who must be told if I'm right or wrong.

I had an operation on my ears last year. They used to stick out like loving - cup handles. A plastic surgeon did a very good job of cutting the cords in back and now my ears look normal — close to my head.

Mom just loves to show people pictures of me, the way I looked before. I hate it when she does this.

She says, "Everyone in town has known you since you were a little boy, so what's wrong with it?" I STILL don't like it, Ann. Should Mom stop or not? - New Me

Dear New: It's quite understandable that Mom's before - and - after caper would make you uncomfortable, and she should respect your wishes. I'm with you, pal.

***

Dear Ann Landers: I am a 14 - year - old girl with a 7 - year - old problem. My little sister. She is driving me insane. My parents don't know what to do with her.

Laura picks up the second phone whenever I talk to a friend. She says terrible things just to embarrass me. She hides my clothes and books.

Once she took my best friend's rings off the wash basin. I pleaded for two hours before she gave them back.

Dad says what Laura needs is a daily thrashing. Mom thinks counseling might help.

Are all 7 - year - olds like this? Will Laura grow out of it? The thought that my little sister might need professional help scares me to death. What should be done? - Lynnfield Sister

Dear Sis: One of the problems is that your parents can't agree on what should be done about that child. She has learned to "divide and conquer."

Moreover, Laura has discovered she can be the center of attention if she misbehaves. Often young children act up because they'd rather be punished than ignored.

I suggest counseling — for Laura and your parents. They need to learn where THEY fit into the picture.

Chiefs confront shopper anger

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

DALLAS—The housewife's love affair with the supermarket has turned sour and store owners are trying to figure out some way to revive the romance.

The 12,000 supermarket executives who attended the Dallas convention of the Super Market Institute week had the message of customer dissatisfaction hammered into them by a variety of speakers.

The theme went something like this: consumers are angry about rising food prices and they blame the supermarkets; gleaming stores with shelf upon shelf of brand new products are not enough to attract — and hold — customers; people are buying fewer convenience items and are demanding more information about the goods they do purchase.

The store owners were urged to stop being suspicious of the news media; they were told that it's better to admit trouble honestly than to try to make excuses or cover up; they were lectured about what the consumer wants — more face-to-face contact with store employes, lower prices, specials that mean real savings.

The speakers included pollsters who measure consumer attitudes about shopping, store owners who have waged allegedly successful campaigns to get their side of the food picture across to the public and women's magazine editors who reported on what readers say they want.

Among the panel discussions at the four-day conference last week were: "General Merchandise in the Super Market — A survey of current consumer behavior," "The Economy, the Consumer and Management Strategies," "Maintaining Effective Relations with Local Media" and "Consumer Affairs as a Marketing Strategy."

The executives were told that a survey by Yankelovich, Skelly and White, Inc., conducted for the Super Market Institute, showed growing dissatisfaction with supermarkets. In the summer of 1974, 58 per cent of those surveyed believed supermarkets struck a bad balance between profits and public responsibility; by the end of the year, 72 per cent expressed a negative attitude. A further update is in the works.

Raising the flag

From left, California High School Vice Principal Bob Davis, Roy McDaniels and Student Body President Bill Deslaurie raise a brand new flag for Cal High. Locating a flag was the project of Geraldine Shiplet's 20 to 1 group and McDaniels donated this version of Old Glory to the school. The gift was marked by a brief concert by the band and a speech by Mark Fernwood of the John Birch Society.

A week to be kind to animals—they need it

By DIANE DANIEL
Lesher News Bureau

MARTINEZ—In one cage sit four fluffy, black and white kittens, eager to play and anxious to explore the world.

Next to them lies a multicolored mother cat, suckling five tiny babies.

In an adjacent room pups romp, an Afghan hound looks up as people pass by and two caged Labradors bark in anticipation of adoption.

But, that was Thursday. They are all dead today and in their place are other forlorn puppies, kittens, dogs and cats.

It is "Be Kind to Animals Week," but hundreds of animals from throughout the county are forced to celebrate it by being destroyed in the animal control euthanasia chambers.

They are the victims of human neglect and stupidity.

They are the mothers allowed to become pregnant with unwanted puppies and kittens and the offspring resulting from human decisions that it would be cute for Fluffy or Muffin to have a litter, perhaps so the children could watch.

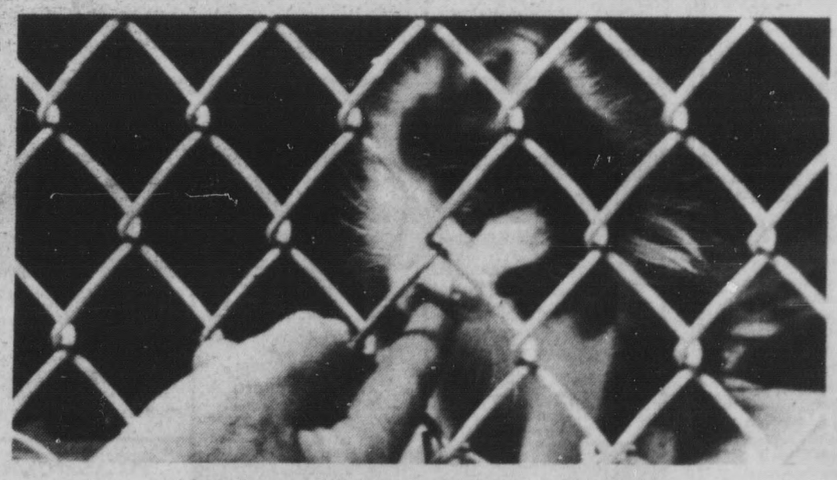
Outside the animal control facility in Martinez, almost out of ear shot from the yowling, caged animals, sit Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals (SPCA) and Stop Pets Annual Yield (SPAY) organization representatives, manning an information booth and eager to give persons a tour through the plant.

No one bothers to stop by.

A young fellow charges up in a blue station wagon, a girl beside him and a litter of frisky kittens crawling about the back.

He takes a look at the "Be Kind To Animals" sign and demands, "Well, do you have anywhere I could take kittens other than here?"

"No," comes the quick response, and then the advice, "Get your female spayed."



How long will this fuzzy ball of fun last?

"That costs money," he retorts, heading inside the shelter, where notices are posted that most surrendered animals are destroyed immediately.

Awhile later he emerges, tells his girl the situation and they begin to drag the squirming creatures from the car.

Just as they get them collected, the girl has a change of heart. They drop the kittens, close the back hatch and roar off.

"Now, what do you suppose will happen to those kittens?" comes the immediate question from one of the booth staffers.

"They'll be let loose to die in the Pinole hills," is one response.

"They'll starve to death, just like so many other small animals," comes another.

Meanwhile, an animal control employe saunders up to the booth, critical of the press for failure to give animal control sufficient publicity and critical of veterinarians for overcharging for pet spaying and neutering.

Charles Crill, animal control director, said the facility on Imhoff Drive, Martinez, is a busy one, but few animals are actually adopted or redeemed.

He said there's a steady stream, perhaps 100 to 150 persons daily, coming to animal control.

Many are there to quickly drop off the thousands of animals impounded annually.

A few are there to select a new pet and others are hopeful that their lost creatures will be among the animals held.

'Illegal aliens, not refugees the trouble'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Coast Guard said Friday a protest has been sent to the U.S. State Department and the chief of the Soviet fishing expeditions over the illegal taking of rock fish catches on Russian and Polish fishing boats off the California coast.

The sightings of rock fish, made from the air April 30 and last Tuesday, were confirmed on board the planes by U.S. National Fisheries Service personnel, the Coast Guard said. No vessel was boarded, they said.

The Coast Guard said in each case "more than incidental" amounts of rock fish were spotted and identified by color aboard a fishing fleet of six Russian and two Polish vessels.

A Russian-U.S treaty prohibits the Soviets from taking rock fish, sole, flounder and other bottom fish. The Russian boats are limited this year to 150,000 tons of hake, a cod-like fish not popular in this country.

"For $318 a month, we bought the country."

"Sure, for twice the money we could buy a house this size in the city. And we could fight the traffic, the smog and the crowds.

"But here at Encore San Ramon, we're close enough to Oakland and San Francisco to take advantage of the jobs, the shopping and the entertainment the city offers. And far enough away for the whole family to enjoy life.

"And what a life. We pay only $318* for our huge 3 bedroom, 2 bath home. The large family room looks out over the garden patio. The kitchen is completely equipped, right down to a dishwasher and disposal. And there's an enormous upstairs that's so big we can make a whole second home whenever we want it. The side and back yards are big, too, so the kids have the whole outdoors to go out and play in. My wife and I have really gotten to know each other again in this peaceful atmosphere.

"You're probably a lot like us, and you'd like to raise your family in a safe, clean natural environment. But you still need to live close to work and you still need to keep your monthly payments low. So you should come out to Encore San Ramon like we did. It's the best move we ever made."

*Typical Financing: Cash sales price $53,990. Down payment $11,990. First Trust Deed $42,000. Paid in 354 equal payments of $318 P&I, plus taxes and insurance. 8-1/4% simple annual rate. 9-1/2% annual percentage. No closing costs.
